ALKIMIA is a unique white wine crafted entirely from red Garnacha grapes sourced from century-old vines, hand-harvested during the 2024 vintage.

Although made from red grapes, this wine undergoes no skin contact, resulting in a pure and expressive white wine.

The must is gently drained using a hydraulic press, carefully settled, and fermented with selected external yeasts at a low temperature (18°C) to preserve its freshness and varietal character.

A light charcoal treatment is later applied to refine the color, followed by clarification, cold stabilization during December and January, and final filtration and bottling.

At 13.5% alcohol by volume, ALKIMIA is a technical and delicate wine that blends artisanal tradition with oenological precision, offering a distinctive interpretation of Garnacha.
